1. Take no more than 10 integers and put them in an array, and compute the mean and variance of the integers.

2. Take five strings that is separated with commas, place each string in the array, check if each string has a string "java" and print true/false, and if true, print out a string replaced with "python".